On Demand Webinar Activity Overall Goal:

This CE activity serves to promote the process of life-long learning for physicians, dietitians, pharmacists, and nurses who specialize in the sciences of clinical nutrition and metabolism.

Goal and Target Audience:

This educational activity is directed toward clinical nutrition and metabolism professionals and others who wish to update their knowledge of clinical nutrition and metabolism. By participating in this educational activity, the reader may expect to:

- Acquire knowledge in the area of clinical nutrition and metabolism research.
- Update or confirm your understanding of appropriate clinical nutrition and metabolism practices.
- Identify further learning needs as they relate to the subject matter.

Webinar Description:

Enteral nutrition (EN) therapy is frequently utilized in hospital patients when oral intake is contraindicated or inadequate. This webinar will highlight EN practice recommendations for the use of EN in critically ill patients. Attendees will gain knowledge in when and how to initiate EN in patients receiving vasopressors as well as in patients undergoing specific critical care treatment modalities.

Variability exists with clinician practice related to enteral nutrition (EN) initiation and use in critically ill patients. When is a patient hemodynamically stable to begin EN, how quickly should it be advanced, what type of enteral formula is most likely to be tolerated are a few questions often asked by clinicians in the use of EN in critically ill patients. In addition, initiating EN in patients being managed with non-invasive ventilation is a common question. These practice variations and questions will be addressed in the webinar.

Learning Objectives:

1. Describe clinical conditions in which enteral nutrition can be initiated in critically ill patients.
2. Outline enteral nutrition practices including type of formula, feeding location and monitoring in critically ill patients.
3. Detail approaches in enteral nutrition usage in specific clinical conditions including extracorporeal membrane oxygenation support, paralytic therapy, and non-invasive ventilation.
